Python Data Structures Project

Performing increasingly complex data analysis and exploring the use of Python built-in data structures such as lists, dictionaries, and tuples.

Aim: We open the file mbox-short.txt and read it line by line. When you find a line that starts with 'From ' like the following line:

From stephen.marquard@uct.ac.za Sat Jan 5 09:14:16 2008

You will parse the From line using split() and print out the second word in the line (i.e. the entire address of the person who sent the message). Then print out a count at the end.

Hint: make sure not to include the lines that start with 'From:'.

The sample data can be downloaded at http://www.py4e.com/code3/mbox-short.txt.

(Or is given at the end of the document)

Code:

```
fhand = open("mbox-short.txt")

count = 0

for line in fhand:

    line = line.rstrip()

    if line == "": continue words = line.split()

    if words[0] !="From": continue

    print(words[1])

    count = count+1

print ("There were", count, "lines in the file with From as the first word")
```

Output

```
stephen.marquard@uct.ac.za
```

```

There were 27 lines in the file with From as the first word
```

(1) Now we read through the mbox-short.txt and figure out who has sent the greatest number of mail messages.

The program looks for 'From ' lines and takes the second word of those lines as the person who sent the mail. The program creates a Python dictionary that maps the sender's mail address to a count of the number of times they appear in the file.

After the dictionary is produced, the program reads through the dictionary using a maximum loop to find the most prolific committer.

Code:

fname = input("Enter file:")

if len(fname) < 1 : name = "mbox-short.txt"

hand = open(fname)

lst = list()

for line in hand:

   if not line.startswith("From:"): continue

   line = line.split()

   lst.append(line[1])

counts = dict()

for word in lst:

   counts[word] = counts.get(word,0) + 1

bigcount = None

bigword = None

for word,count in counts.items():

   if bigcount is None or count > bigcount:

      bigcount = count

      bigword = word

print (bigword,bigcount)
```

Output:

```
cwen@iupui.edu 5
```

Hence, we can conclude that from the data, 5 times this email id has been used to send the mail.

(2) Now we write a program to read through the mbox-short.txt and figure out the distribution by hour of the day for each of the messages.

You can pull the hour out from the 'From ' line by finding the time and then splitting the string a second time using a colon.

From stephen.marquard@uct.ac.za Sat Jan 5 09:14:16 2008

Once we have accumulated the counts for each hour, we print out the counts, sorted by hour as shown below.

Code:

name = raw_input("Enter file:")

if len(name) < 1 : name = "mbox-short.txt"

handle = open(name)

d=dict()

for line in handle:

  if not line.startswith("From "):

    continue

  else:

    line=line.split()

    line=line[5]

    d[line]=d.get(line,0)+1

lst=list()

for value,count in d.items():

  lst.append((value,count))
```

```
lst.sort()

for value,count in lst:

   print (value,count)
```

Output:

```
04 3
06 1
07 1
09 2
10 3
11 6
14 1
15 2
16 4
17 2
18 1
19 1
```

Through this project, I tried to explain how Python Data Structures can be used in making the analyses of huge data easier and life a lot better.
